

Marketing and Public Events Internships

About the Jewish Museum

The Jewish Museum London is for people of all backgrounds and faiths to explore British Jewish heritage, identity and culture.

Set against a spacious and modern architectural backdrop with displays across four permanent galleries, the museum brings the Jewish story to life, placing it in a wider context of British history.

Our exhibitions and events and learning programmes encourage a sense of discovery and creativity and tell the story of Jewish history, culture and religion in an innovative and compelling way.

Our Values

We are:

- Brave
- Irreverent
- Vibrant
- Emotional
- Questioning
- Welcoming
- Generous

About the Internship

The Marketing and Events Internships at the Jewish Museum are based within the Marketing team.

The Marketing team is responsible for attracting, retaining, and increasing visitors to the museum of all ages, faiths and backgrounds, as well as increasing engagement with new and existing audiences. The department encompasses the following areas

- Communications, Marketing and PR
- Events Programming and delivery
- Internal Communications
- Social media
- Digital media and online activity including the website
- Production of video content
- Filming and photography

An internship with the Marketing team focuses on providing you with hands-on experience in marketing, PR, and public events for a museum.

Goals and Responsibilities

The position includes on-the-job training and experience in a busy communications and public events team. The intern will work closely with the Head of Marketing, Marketing and Digital Manager, and Public Events Programmer to gain training and hands-on experience of completing specific tasks associated with communications, marketing and event planning and delivery.

This internship offers the opportunity to do professional-level work under supervision in such areas as writing website and blog updates, media relations, social media content generation, working on special events, as well as assisting the marketing team with researching, planning and executing marketing campaigns. In addition to helping with marketing and events activities, interns will also help with basic office work as needed.

At the end of the internship, you will have a working knowledge of public relations, event and other marketing activities, as well as insight into event planning processes and budget management.

How to Apply

Internships at the Jewish Museum typically last about 3 months and can range from 1-4 days per week, including some evening work on events, although we are flexible and happy to suggest alternatives if needed.

Please note that the Internship is voluntary and thus unpaid. The museum is happy to cover expenses of up to £15 to cover travel within London and lunch.

No prior knowledge of Judaism is necessary for an internship at the Jewish Museum. All training will be provided. An interest in museums, marketing and communications is essential.

To apply for an internship please send a CV and cover letter expressing your areas of interest and career goals. Please send expressions of interest via email or post to:

Hannah Talbot
Head of Marketing, Communications and PR
Jewish Museum London
129-131 Albert St
London NW1 7NB
Hannah.Talbot@jewishmuseum.org.uk