Become a Poet

This is Harriet Abrams. She was a famous opera singer in the 18th century. She had her debut performance when she was only 15 years old. Despite the negative stereotypes and discrimination she faced, her career thrived!

For a lot of people, singing and writing songs can be a way of coping with their emotions.

Are you ready to make your debut? To start your songwriting career, try writing a short poem.

An easy way to begin is to write a Haiku. This is a form of poem originally from Japan which has three lines. The first line is five syllables, the second is seven syllables, and the third is five again. Try your luck!
